Saturday 6th March: 2.30pm-3.30pm
Drumming and Percussion Workshop – Free Event

Led by Sue Hulbert, Director of Talking Drums. Sue runs hand-drumming / percussion corporate & community workshops. She's also an accomplished session musician & has performed on five continents including Africa, Australia & Europe. Drumming helps improve muscle tone, relieves stress and is suitable for all the family. The varying vibrations created during the session can transport you to other realms. Feel the drumming echo throughout your whole body ridding it of tension and uplifting your spirits.

Drumming can be done on common household objects so everyone can take part. Grab your pots and pans and join us for the first of our online wellbeing workshops.

Sunday 7th March: 1.45pm-2.45pm

Soundbath Relaxation – Free Event

Led by Practitioner, Christian Jenson, this session will take you into a deep healing and meditation space through the mystical vibes of Himalayan Singing Bowls & Hand-Pan, along with the gentle sounds of the Kosmosky Drum. Together they enable a process of healing on an emotional, physical, spiritual and mental level, to raise your vibration and improve your overall wellbeing - all in the comfort of your own home. Allow yourself to be still, to just be, concentrate on your breath, as you release and relax the muscles, the mind, body and spirit and bring awareness to your whole body - here and now.

All you need to join in this experience is a comfortable place to lie down with a cushion to support your head and a blanket to keep you warm. Its recommended to use headphones, however if that isn't practical for you, its ok to let the sounds fill the room. Bring a glass of water to drink at the end.

Topic: Online Soundbath Relaxation (YREN) Himalayan Singing Bowls & HandPan

Monday 8th March – 7.30pm – 8.30pm Aromatherapy Workshop – Free Event

With over 35 years of experience in natural and integrative healthcare, June Tramner will offer advice and support during today's workshop. June has gathered some of her favourite self care tips to share with everyone who wants to help keep themselves well, calm and centred in these difficult times. Some are simple recipes for keeping our "defensive energy" awake, others are touch and massage for helping soothe and calm the mind. June has about 13 useful things in her list, which she will share with you so you can try out the ones that best suit you in your own home. Feel free to pass them on to your friends and family too.

Tuesday 9th March: 11am-12pm
Coffee & Chat Club – Free Event

During normal times, YREN hosts free weekly sessions at St Aelred's Community Centre in Tang Hall. Everyone is welcome to come along to our Friendship Project. We offer two sessions, one for parents and toddlers, and a social group for adults. We do crafts, music, quizzes, games and even cooking at times. We have translation facilities to assist any language communication difficulties, and we love to learn about other cultures. All are welcome, our aim is to bring everyone together and to help prevent loneliness and isolation. Throughout lockdown we have continued our sessions online. For many of our members it is their only opportunity to chat and share with other adults during this time of enforced isolation. Children are welcome, so don't worry about noise or interruptions !

To join us just turn up with your favourite drink and a comfy chair. You don't need a zoom account, the link will work with your normal browser.

Wednesday 10th March – 12pm – 1pm
Yoga – Free Event

This workshop is led by Jenny Carpenter, a fully qualified and registered yoga teacher who has helped a range of people improve their sense of well-being. Yoga helps people to connect with each other, either in person or through online classes, and creates a sangha or community of positive, shared energies. Being part of a mutual sangha is extremely beneficial for those people in isolation or who find themselves alone. Through sharing their energy and experience of well-being at the end of a class, people feel a sense of warm comfort. As yoga promotes a slowing down and mindfulness of your own self, bringing yourself back to the present moment, it helps people to understand themselves more and generates an overall holistic sense of peace.

For this workshop wear clothes that you can freely move in. Bring a yoga mat or a large towel and have some water to drink nearby.

Wednesday 10th March: 7.30pm - 8.30pm
YREN Open Minds Presentation
West Indian Nurses in the 1950s-1960s National Health Service
- Free Event

YREN Member and Volunteer, Linda Ali, will be telling us all about her research into West Indian women working in the 1950/60's NHS. If her previous talk on Black and Caribbean soldiers during World War One is anything to go by, this is a presentation not to miss!

Linda was born in Trinidad and Tobago and travelled to Britain in 1961 to study Beauty Therapy and Electrolysis. As a result of sustained discrimination, she decided to follow a different career path in Trade Marks management working in the City of London for over 30 years. In 1997 she arrived in York where she completed a BA (Hons) History/Education and Masters in History at the University of York. Through her studies she began to focus on 'Black Presence in Britain'. This took the form of her MA Thesis titled 'West Indian Nurses working in the National Health Service 1950s-1960s', which we are going to learn about tonight.

At present, dedicated to her Christian faith, Linda volunteers in many areas of the Church of England, and is one of the Lay representatives of York Diocese on General Synod. She was also appointed as a Lay Canon of York Minister. In this regard, Linda was nominated as a member of York's Commonwealth diaspora to attend a reception at Buckingham Palace, in February 2018, where she was presented to Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth, Head of the Commonwealth. In addition, on Holy Thursday 2018, Linda was appointed by the Archbishop of York to be one of 92 women involved in charity work in York, to receive the Maundy Money from Her Majesty in St George's Chapel, Windsor.

Healing Racial Trauma with Amy

Please note this talk is a protected space for BAME women (trans inclusive).

Amy from YARC developed a 10 week programme for BAME women to begin to heal from racial trauma. Amy works at a trauma informed women's centre in York so she combined her knowledge around trauma with the experience of racism to write this course.

Join this event to learn more about racial trauma, the theories behind the 10 week programme, an introduction to YARC and how you can refer yourself or women you know to the service.

Thursday 11 March: 3pm - 4pm
YREN Open Minds Presentation - 'Things You've Forgotten; Words from Lockdown'
- Free Event

YREN invites you to an hour of poems and anecdotes, with local writer, founding Member and former Chair of YREN, Yvie Holder. Yvie's writing is drawn from her life and inspired by the lives of others too. She will reflect on the York International Women's Week theme for 2021, 'Women in a Time of Plague.' Using imagination, biography and extracts from her upcoming memoir, she'll focus on times before, during and (possibly) after lockdown.

Yvie's memoir centres on her parents' struggles in the 1950's when they met in the UK and how their experiences replayed in her own life. Her book spans 200 years, from a Caribbean slave plantation, to Brexit and the Windrush scandal. It covers themes of loss, separation, adoption, interracial marriage, reconciliation and enduring love. It explores what it is to belong and what values shaped the Britain we know today.
